Work of Institute Going On As if Nothing Unusual Had Happened.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LEXINGTON, VA., November 18.—Definite and direct information was received to-day by your correspondent from several reliable sources each agreeing with and confirming the others as to the contents of the paper presented Thursday by Governor Montague to the recalcitrant third class on his visib to the Virginia Military Institute. It is said that the first paper was not acceptable to the "onth-bound thriteen" from the fact that it contained the word "regret for presenting the paper of November 2d, to the post adjutant, which communication was the formal protest by the third class against the kind of food furnished them. The objectionable word was tricken out and the paper, quoted from memobry, is as follows:

"We, members of the third class of the Virginia Military Institute, recognize that in signing the paper dated November 2d, addressed to the post adjutant, we violated section 123 of the regulations, and we hereby respectfully request that the paper he withdrawn as far as possible. We do not wish that our signatures be construed in some ways.

We do not wish that our signatures be construed in any way as a withdrawal of the complaints made in regard to the food at the mess hall."

This paper was signed by the entire third class, and it is thought that it will be accepted by the Board of Visitors as a sufficient retraction on the part of the offending cadets.

Mr. William T. Shields, of Lexington, the resident member of the Board of Visitors, has sent a copy of the paper signed by the cadets to each member of the board but is a vet he has not received.

The daily work of the institute is going on as if nothing unusual had taken place. In fact, even during the inevstigation and while the public was on the qui vive for developments, the cadets performed their daily tasks of recitation and drill—to all appearance, unconscious that in some quarters the situation at the "West Point of the South" was considered extremely critical. The cadets came up-town this afternoon on their usual Saturday hair-holiday. They all appeared in fine spirits, and many expressed their pleasure at the happy turn affairs had taken.

in spirit and experience for this progressive work."

The report further speaks of the Co-operative Education Commission, a popular movement that has welded into an effective union all the educational forces in Tirginia." The prospect of a notable aducation convention in Lynchburg on the 29th of this month is referred to, and the report says the two magnificent sifts of ten million dollars each, one by Mr. Carnegle and one by Mr. Rockefeller, reveal the expanding energies of the cause of education in American Democracy. The report reporter rejoices in the installation of Dr. Alderman as president of the University of Virginia, and says if "marks an epoch in the history both of that noble institution and of the cause of popular education in the State."

The report then says: "In the grievous impulses of this progressive movement our denominational schools have shared. It could not be otherwise, for all education is one. What helps any school helps all. Certainly in education the co-operative principle must supplant the competitive. Instead of institutions of learning struggling with one another to secure the five hundredth boy or girl who goes to college, they are discovering that a more excellent way is to strive to incite the four hundred and ninety-nine neglected youth to embrace the advantages of higher education."

The report goes on to give figures which show that all the Baptist institutions of learning are well-filled with scholars, have learning are well-filled with scholars, have larger enrollments than ever before, among them the Fork Union Academy, Newport News Academy, and Oak Grove Academy, and the Lee Baptist Institute, all for boys, and the Rawlings Institute, the Virginia Institute, the Woman's College, the Franklin Seminary, the Roanoke Female College, and the Hollins Inskitute, for girls.

the General Association and the Education Commission, acting under its authority, has been to establish a contral woman's college, with proper endowment, around which shall be gathered various and sundry minor institutions as feeders, all forming a chain of educational institutions that shall make their mark in Virginia history.

It has been a question for a year or more as to where this central institution shall be located, and it was hoped that at this meeting of the General Assocition the matter of location would have been settled. But not at the committee property that three communities have responded to their bids for an eligible site, namely, Bristol, Charlottesyille and Richmond. The trustees of the Virginia Institute, located & Bristol, offer their handsome building and grounds, valued at $100,000. The trustees of Rawlings Institute, of Charlottesyille, offer their property, valued at $25,000, and $35,000 in money.

At Work.

The commission is at work, but is yet ready to make a definite offer. I not unlikely, moreover, that other c munities in the State may become in The commission is at work, out is also yet ready to make a definite offer. It is not unlikely, moreover, that other communities in the State may become interested in the matter and may wish more time. At the same time we think it would be unfortunate to lineur a full year's further delay in inaugurating this great work. We therefore recommend: First—That the time within which competitive offers may be received be extended until the first day of April next. Second—That if at that date, or at any later date, within the associational year, the commission is in possession of any offer whose intrinsic merit seems to them to justify them in the selection of a location, they are authorized to do so.

We are still convinced that this movement has the good will of our Virginia brotherhood, and that, having begun this work, they will-not be satisfied to relinquish it until we have a well equipped and firmly established institution in some suitable and desirable part of the State for the highest education of our girls. While this matter is proceeding, we renew our commendation of our excellent schools for girls in the State, and recommend that where our young kides wish to go further in their studies than is provided for in these institutions, they attend Richmond College.
